Tarapacá Late Harvest is a blend of Sauvignon Blanc, Gewürztraminer and Muscatel. 70% of the grapes are sourced from Maipo Valley, contributing to richness on the palate and a long and juicy finish. The rest of the grapes are sourced from other important valleys in Chile, such as Curicó, Leyda and Limarí, which contribute complexity to the blend. Flowery notes from Curicó Valley, saline and refreshing notes from Leyda Valley, and finally, grapes from Limarí that allow for achieving an intense and balanced wine. We invite you to enjoy it in good company, together with desserts made with tropical fruit or berries.
